MAN DROWNS, SIX INJURED OVER FOURTH

Seen & Heard Around Murray

The American Medical Association has reported on the geographic distribution of physicians in the U.S.

80,492 are in the northeast, 62,943 in the north central, 62,412 in the south and 47,440 are in the west. These figures are for non-federal physicians only and do not include 11,166 medical school faculty and 12,898 inactive physicians.

In 1936 we had 169,055 physicians. In 1967 we had 308,630.

About one physician in 11 now is involved in federal service.

"A group of social reformers, impatient with the present 'rag bag' of measures to combat poverty, propose to wipe it out in a single swoop. The government would simply guarantee to everybody, regardless of whether or not he worked, could work, or was willing to work, a minimum income. This guaranteed income would be sufficient for his needs, 'enough to enable him to live with dignity.' The reformers estimate that the guaranteed income ought to range somewhere between $3,000 and $5,000 a year for a family of four. This is no longer merely the proposal of a few starry-eyed private individuals. The National Commission on Technology, Automation, and Economic Progress, established by Congress in 1964, brought in a 115 page report to the President of February 4, 1966, recommending guaranteed incomes for all." Henry Hazlitt.

Isn't it great to be alive on the fifth.

A Mocking Bird taking his morning bath early one day this week. The heavy dew provided him with all the water he needed. He would just flutter around in the wet grass enjoying his mini-bath. The Blue Jay disdains such carryings-on. He plunges into the bird bath with gusto, no relation, and gets soaking wet. Gusto gets wet too.

The three salesmen wanted to discuss some things at lunch but couldn't find an empty table. They sat at one where a little, elderly woman was eating. One said: "You know, boys, it's been three weeks since I've been able to take a bath." The second caught on quick and said: "Reck, it's been six weeks since I've had a bath." And the third backs 'em up by saying: "Shucks, you guys are plumb clean. I haven't had a bath since last August."

Many folks have Hydrangeas in full bloom now. Mrs. Perry at 518 Broad Street has some fine ones.

Sitting out in the back yesterday and a big fat Quail comes walking by. He goes here and there, ignoring us. He finally crosses into the deep grass and you could follow his trail through the grass by watching the top of the grass. The tops moved as he found his way to wherever he was going.

We tried to watch TV yesterday with little success. Only thing on was such stuff as "Another World". Those folks have more problems and crises than any people we know. We figured that life has enough problems without sitting there and watching the miseries of those people.

Educational TV Workshop Is At MSU

Forty-four principals, supervisors, and teachers from 25 county and independent school systems in Kentucky are taking part in an educational television workshop this summer at Murray State University.

The workshop, Project MUST (Multi-Media Utilization through Statewide Television), began June 23 and will run through July 25.

According to Dr. Franklin Fitch, project director, the federally-supported workshop has two purposes:

—to give each participant firsthand experience with educational television and in preparing and utilizing audio and visual teaching aids for teaching with television; and

—to provide an opportunity for selected school leaders to prepare a practical in-service training program in educational TV for the teachers in their school system.

Dr. Fitch, who is a professor and director of audio-visual education at Murray State, said the workshop is a continuation of last year's program which led up to the inauguration of state-wide educational television in Kentucky.

The workshop participants are enrolled in two related graduate education courses at MSU and will earn three hours of credit for each class.

Principal instructors during the five-week institute are Dr. Fitch, Dr. Jerome Hainesworth of the MSU school of education, and Willard Card of Brigham Young University.

Other Murray State University professors who will assist in the instruction are Dr. Ray Moore, school of education; Robert Jones, industrial education department; and Robert Howard, communications department.

In addition, Mrs. Susan Mesman, Miss Bonnie Helsley, and Jerry Cantrell are serving as graduate assistants in the summer program.

Billy F. Lassiter Drowns In A Pond Near Cottage Grove

Six persons were injured in accidents over the Fourth of July holiday and one person drowned.

Billy Frank Lassiter, son of Dallas Lassiter of near Cottage Grove, Tennessee, drowned yesterday in a pond on the farm operated by his father.

Lassiter, age 26, taught at Symsonia last year and had been employed at the new Henry County High School for the coming school year.

Mrs. Gene Miller of Hazel, his cousin, said that Lassiter, his father, his brother Wallace, and his uncle, Robert Lassiter, were all at the pond seining for fish. He was a good swimmer and he went to the center of the pond to chase the fish toward the net.

He encountered some kind of trouble, Mrs. Miller related, and disappeared into the pond water. Both his father and his brother, neither of whom can swim, nearly drowned in an attempt to save him. The body was recovered by the Paris Rescue Squad about one hour after he drowned. The pond is a large one and was dug by Mr. Lassiter.

The tragedy occurred about 10:00 yesterday morning. The group had caught one six and one-half pound fish and decided to seine the pond and have a fish fry.

Lassiter is survived by his father Dallas, his brother Wallace, a sister Kathy, and his wife of three years. The couple had no children.

Ridgeway Funeral Home of Paris has charge of arrangements, however the body is now at the home of the father near Cottage Grove.

The funeral will be held tomorrow at the Baptist Church in Cottage Grove at 3:00 p. m.

WAREHOUSE BURNS

MOREHEAD, Ky. (UPI) — A fertilizer and ammonia-fed fire, sending flames more than 200 feet into the air, destroyed a giant tobacco warehouse here early today.

All available fire fighting equipment was called to battle the blaze, which gutted the 300-yard long frame structure owned by the Morehead Tobacco Warehouse Corp.

Dallas Lassiter is a brother of James "Jiggs" Lassiter, prominent Murray automobile dealer.

The pond is located about half a mile from the Lassiter home and is a fish management project. Robert Melton, Henry County Conservation agent, was at the pond at the time of the incident.

The primary purpose in seining the pond was to have a fish count to see how the fish restocking program was progressing.

Dallas Lassiter was aided by those on the bank when they threw a rope to him and pulled him to shore. Billy Frank was fully dressed and wore large boots. It is thought the

Drive For Baseball Now About $1800

The Murray Baseball Association has received donations of about $1800.00 in their drive to raise funds for the baseball program at the Murray City Park.

Jesse Spencer, president of the Association, said he wished to express his thanks to each one who has donated to the cause. He said the businesses in Murray will be called on at a later date.

The drive was boosted somewhat this week by the donation of $300.00 from the employees of the Murray Division of the Tappan Company and $125.00 from the Tappan Company.

Since the Murray Association no longer gets funds from the United Fund, it was necessary to have the drive for the Association. The funds from this drive will go to buy the uniforms and equipment for the more than four hundred boys involved in the five leagues, Park, Kentucky, Little, Pony, and Colt.

Over two hundred parents are also involved in the program who help in the concession stand each night a ball game is in progress. The funds from the concession go to pay the umpires for each game, according to Spencer.

FRANKFORT — When Kentucky legislators get into the "black lung" issue at next year's session, they may find conflicting medical opinions as a key stumbling block to workmen's compensation for ailing miners under the present law.

The difficulty in diagnosing and differentiating between "black lung" pneumoconiosis and other lung ailments is illustrated in a case handed down by the Court of Appeals last week.

Adam Parks of Burdine, Letcher County, had worked in the mines 47 years when he applied for total disability compensation for "silicosis and - or pneumoconiosis" in the fall of 1965.

The state Workmen's Compensation Board was faced with this conflicting testimony:

For the employer:

Dr. Oscar O. Miller, Louisville - "Negative for silicosis... his chief disability is emphysema which is not related to his work as a miner."

Dr. William H. Anderson, Louisville - "No evidence of pneumoconiosis or silicosis."

Dr. S. G. Davidson, Bluefield, W. Va. - "Moderately diffuse emphysema; this man does not show X-ray evidence of pneumoconiosis of any type."

Dr. Porter Cayo, Lexington - "No evidence of pneumoconiosis."

Dr. Ralph C. Quilliam, Lexington - "No evidence of pulmonary emphysema... no pulmonary nodulations to suggest pneumoconiosis."

Dr. J. E. Meyers Jr., Lexington - "No present evidence of pneumoconiosis; pulmonary fibrosis emphysema, findings suggestive of."

For the miner:

Dr. Charles W. Nelson, Beck-

ley, W. Va. - "Mild to moderate emphysema and continued findings of nodular fibrotic - like changes of pneumoconiosis."

Dr. William C. Hambley, Pikeville - "Second-stage silicosis with mild emphysema."

Dr. William F. Clarke, Pikeville - "Second - stage pneumoconiosis."

Board - appointed doctor:

Dr. Allen L. Cornish, Lexington - "chronic obstructive bronchitis with secondary pulmonary emphysema... No evidence of silicosis or other pneumoconiosis."

In a unanimous opinion written by board member Robert M. Tiller of Louisville, the board ruled in favor of the employer, Bethel Corp., Jenkins and denied compensation. The decision was upheld by Letcher Circuit Judge Stephen Combs Jr. and the Court of Appeals.

Once the board rules, present law makes the decision hard to overturn in court.

"Neither the circuit court nor this court has the authority to overturn the factual findings of the board unless it... is clearly erroneous," the Court of Appeals said.

A special legislative subcommittee and a state Health Department consultant are studying the "black lung" problem, but neither has reached conclusions yet.

The subcommittee has set a hearing July 17. The consultant, Dr. Gracie R. Rowntree, declined comment until after a committee study.

In the opinion of one miner's attorneys, Dan Jack Combs of Pikeville, an answer may lie in the amount of proof required by the compensation board, although Combs said in February

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Beamed by Baggage

Wheeling around a corner, the bus driver cut so sharply that a suitcase fell out of the overhead rack. It landed squarely on the head of an unsuspecting woman passenger, inflicting painful injuries.

In due course, she sued the bus company for damages. At the trial, the company protested that it should not be held responsible for such an unlikely accident.

But the court felt otherwise and ordered the company to pay the woman's claim. The judge said it was part of a driver's job to handle his bus with full regard for the dangers of falling luggage.

As it does on all common carriers, the law imposes substantial responsibility on a bus company for the safety of the traveling public. This responsibility extends not only to the way the driver handles the bus but also to the way luggage is placed—either on the rack overhead or in the seats and aisles.

Consider this case:

A passenger set his suitcase on the floor, where it protruded more than two feet into the aisle. Another passenger, coming through, stumbled over the suitcase and suffered a broken leg.

Here, too, a damage suit against the bus company was successful. The victim won his case on the ground that the suitcase had been in that obstructive position long enough for the bus driver—if he had been reasonably alert—to have noticed it and taken action.

Nevertheless, while the law demands due care of the driver, it does not expect the impossible. In another case, the driver did check the position of all luggage—above and below—before starting out. Furthermore, he drove his bus with proper care.

Yet, unbeknownst to him, a satchel on the overhead rack contained a kitten. During the ride the kitten moved, shifting the center of gravity and bringing the satchel crashing down upon a passenger's shoulder.

Under these circumstances, a court could find no basis for holding the bus company liable. The judge said he saw no way by which the driver, no matter how conscientious, could have foreseen and forestalled an accident like this.

Today is Saturday, July 5, the 186th day of 1969—with 179 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1865, William Booth founded the Salvation Army in London.

In 1935, President Roosevelt signed the Wagner-Connery Bill, officially known as the National Labor Relations Act. It guaranteed labor's right to collective bargaining.

In 1945, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced the liberation of the Philippines.

In 1965, President De Gaulle of France boycotted the European Common Market, creating a danger to Europe's ever-increasing prosperity through trade.

A thought for the day — Mark Twain once said — "To promise not to do a thing is the surest way in the world to make a body want to go and do that very thing."

Enjoy boating—but don't run aground before you get near the water. The Nashville District Corps of Engineers, reminds all small boat skippers to make sure their boat trailers are properly lubricated, tires inflated to the right level and loads balanced and secured before starting for the lake. This makes for a safer outing for everyone—This reminder is for all seasons, but especially now. This is National Safe Boating Week.

the present board has not required as much as the old board did.

"They required a showing almost beyond a shadow of a doubt that the man has classical silicosis or soft coal miners pneumoconiosis," Combs said. "This is difficult."

"TIGER WOMAN" Winnie Ruth Judd, 65, who escaped from an Arizona mental hospital seven years ago, is escorted friendly-like by attorney Melvin Belli following arraignment in Martinez, Calif. She's been in and out since the early 1930s for killing and hacking to pieces two women friends and shipping their bodies to Los Angeles.

Backstairs At The White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON UPI — Backstairs at the White House:

One of the more constant inconsistencies of White House life under any administration is the manner in which members of a presidential staff vow, promise and pledge never to disclose the little inside details of first family life.

Then, at some mysterious point of release or disaffection for various reasons, they hotfoot to the nearest publisher and tell all. Well, not quite all, but enough to disturb an earlier image.

A classic example is "Jackie Kennedy" by her former personal secretary, Mary Gallagher, appearing in the Ladies Home Journal. It is to be brought out in book form by David McKay Co. Inc.

When Mrs. Gallagher was at the White House, working for Jackie, who is now married to Aristotle Onassis, she regarded intimate questions about the first lady as little less than challenging scripture. Now, however, Mrs. Gallagher is more than willing, for a substantial sum, to rip into her former boss and confirm what the White House stoutly denied at the time - that Jackie Kennedy was a difficult first lady and at times, preferred to remain in bed reading instead of greeting White House guests.

In a relaxed moment on a plane trip during his presidency, the late President Kennedy was frankly alarmed by memoirs written by former staff members of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Of one particular Eisenhower staff member, Kennedy said, "here was a man trying to function as president and one of his most trusted staff members was making notes under the table. I hope this never happens to me."

The sad truth is that a number of people who worked for Kennedy were making notes, too. While he was alive and in office, they were the guardians. Outsiders who asked probing questions were regarded as bordering on sedition, if not unpatriotic. But once JFK was murdered in the streets of Dallas in 1963, a multitude of these one-time guardians leaped to typewriters and literary agents.

There was, however, something held back anything to challenge or upset Mrs. Kennedy's madonna image.

The Gallagher magazine series and full book possibly could lead other Kennedy - orbit people to talk and write for money. There were, as many people in the Virginia hunt country now, some interesting weekends at Middlesburg, Va.

George Washington stood up in a small boat once—but he was lucky. Don't follow this example. Remember, capsizing is a major cause of boating accidents; and standing up in a small boat is the easiest way to capsize it. So stay seated and stay safe—it's the smart way to enjoy the water.

George Washington stood up in a small boat once—but he was lucky. Don't follow this example. Remember, capsizing is a major cause of boating accidents; and standing up in a small boat is the easiest way to capsize it. So stay seated and stay safe—it's the smart way to enjoy the water.

Going fishing? Then keep seated when casting and reeling in fish. If you must move about in the boat, do it carefully and slowly. Keep low and don't get over balanced. That's the advice of the Corps of Engineers for National Safe Boating Week, now through July 5.

This is National Safe Boating Week—and a good time to brush up on nautical know-how if you're headed for the lake. Remember, most drownings on Corps of Engineers lakes in the Nashville District involve people falling from boats. Safety rules are the best form of life insurance.

Farm Land Values Still Climbing But More Slowly

LEXINGTON, Ky. — The value of Kentucky's farmland has almost tripled since 1950 and has stayed ahead of the national average for increased value per acre, according to Dr. John H. Bondurant, agricultural economist at the University of Kentucky.

Kentucky farmland and farm building values per acre have climbed about 172 per cent, while the national average is less than 130 per cent, Bondurant said.

His recent study shows that — on the average — an acre of Kentucky farmland that was worth $81 in 1950 is now $224 (Nov. 68 figures). "This upward trend will continue," Bondurant said, "but at a lower rate." Continued high interest rates on long-term farm mortgages

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK UPI — Richie Allen has that image of being completely unemotional, a cold fish. He would've stood up, and cheered had he heard this, though. He would've cheered and felt warm inside to know he isn't all alone.

"People never bother to get first-hand information anymore," said the young man. "If they only would take the trouble, but they don't. They never believe anything good about a person. They always believe anything that's bad first . . . and I can assure you my brother, Richie, isn't bad."

Ronnie Allen, first baseman for the Reading Phillies of the Eastern League, made the statement. He was talking in the lobby of the Berkshire Hotel in Reading, Pa., where he and one of his teammates, Bob Kelly, an outfielder, were killing time Wednesday before a two-nighter with the Pittsfield Red Sox.

Kid Brother

Ronnie Allen, 25, is the youngest of the three Allen brothers playing professional baseball. The oldest is Hank, who's 28 and plays the outfield for Washington, and then of course there's Richie, who's 26 and plays first for the Philadelphia Phillies — when they can find him.

Putting in his sixth season in organized ball and his second one with Reading, Ronnie Allen has hit 16 home runs so far and is running away with the league lead in that department. His 54 RBIs and .320 batting average also are right up there, and when brother Richie took home one of the things he was quoted as saying was how long was it going to be before they thought of bringing up his big brother?

Naturally, Ronnie read the whole thing in the papers. "I don't think he stated it that way," says the Reading first baseman. "I think it was blown out of proportion. We talk now and then but we never discussed my going up. All Richie, and Hank too, ever tell me is 'keep in there, keep trying.'"

In The Family

The irony of it all could be that Ronnie Allen might become Philadelphia's regular first baseman if his older brother is traded.

Ronnie had only nine home runs all last season and hit .258 with Reading so it's rather obvious he's improving. The Phils would prefer to have him finish the year where he is and then possibly bring him up, but after six seasons in the minors Ronnie is growing a little restless.

When you talk about the majors to him and ask if his ambition is to reach them, he says:

"It has been, I'm getting tired, though. I'd still like to get to the big leagues but I think this'll be my last year. I've talked it over with Hank and Richie."

And what did they say? "They told me not to let anybody run me out. They said I should quit only when I felt like quitting."

No Troublemaker

Jim Bronson, Reading's general manager, says Ronnie Allen doesn't give the club one bit of trouble.

"You couldn't find a nicer person," he adds.

Bob Wellman, who had a cup of coffee with the old Philadelphia A's as an outfielder and now manages Reading, supports Bronson.

"Ronnie is never a problem on or off the field," he says. "He has always hustled for me, he's a good team man and great to have on a ball club."

What about a big league one? Is he ready for that one?

"Who knows?" Wellman says. "He might go up there and fall on his face. Or he might go up there and tear it up. No one can really tell. He has surpassed his RBI total of last year already and he has nearly twice as many homers so I think it would do him a lot of good to finish the season here."

But that's not up to me."

Additional Woe

Meanwhile, Ronnie Allen can't help but think about his brother, Richie, who not only is under suspension by the Phillies but also has been slapped now by the Internal Revenue Service for back taxes.

Ronnie never second-guesses Richie in anything, not even in his vow never to play for the Phillies again.

"It's his decision to make," the younger Allen says. "Each of us has to lead his own life. But whatever Richie does, I stick by him no matter what. He's my brother. . . I love him."

'Bear' Bryant Accused Of Discrimination

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—A suit filed in federal district court here accuses University of Alabama football coach Paul "Bear" Bryant and other school officials of discrimination against Negroes in the recruitment of athletes.

The suit, filed Wednesday, seeks a change in recruitment practices at the university. It was filed on behalf of the Afro-American Association of the University of Alabama, officers and members of the organization, and two high school seniors from Tuscaloosa.

The court is asked in the suit to order Bryant and the university to recruit black athletes as intensively as they recruit whites, to grant a significant number of football scholarships and grants-in-aid proportionate to the number of black and white high school athletes in the state.

The Ryder Cup matches developed from a golf match played between representatives of the American and British Professional Golfers' Association in England in 1926.

McCluskey Posts Second Victory At Wentzville

WENTZVILLE, Mo., July 4. — Roger McCluskey completed a rare sweep Friday as he maintained his lead in the United States Auto Club stock car standings by winning the Mid-America 200.

McCluskey, driving a 1968 Plymouth Roadrunner, became the only man ever to win the race at the Wentzville track two consecutive years.

It also was McCluskey's second victory in five days, and they both came in surprising finishes against A. J. Foyt, who seldom settles for second place.

McCluskey opened the week Sunday by winning the Memphis 200 at Shelby County International Raceway when Foyt experienced a flat tire with only two laps remaining. And it was with only two laps to go Friday that McCluskey shot to the lead and finished about 35 seconds ahead of the second-place Foyt.

Foyt, three-time winner of the Indianapolis 500, has never won the Mid-America 200. The defending USAC stock car champ drove a 1969 Ford Torino.

McCluskey made only two pit stops while whipping through the 71-lap event on Wentzville's 2.8-mile course. He had said that this course was the toughest on the circuit, but changed his mind after testing Shelby County International.

Stanley Cup

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Stanley Cup, the oldest trophy competed for by professional athletes in North America, was donated by Frederick Arthur Lord Stanley of Preston and the son of the Earl of Derby in 1893 and is the symbol of supremacy in professional hockey.

Voight, selected as "Coach of the Year" in the Jackson Purchase last year, has coached high school teams for 13 years and compiled a superb 160-63 mark in his last seven seasons.

A 1958 graduate of Austin Peay, Voight will work on his master's degree at MSU. He will continue to direct the annual "Championship Basketball Coaches Clinic" at Paducah.

The new Eagle assistant is married and the father of two sons and a daughter. He began his new duties July 1.

The United States team will also compete against West Germany and Great Britain in a series of meets in Europe in late July and early August.

The U. S. team will fly to Hawaii July 7 to train for the meet with the Russians and the British and for the Hawaiian Invitational July 11. It will return to Los Angeles July 12 for further training.

Turner will run on the mile relay team in these meets as well as the 440. He finished second to Olympic champion Lee Evans in the A. A. U. He had set a new meet record of 45.7 in the preliminaries in the previous day, but it was broken in the finals by Evans with a 45.6. Turner ran a 45.5 in the NCAA meet in Knoxville, Tenn., a week ago for his best time ever in the event.

Only a sophomore, Turner was Ohio Valley Conference champion in both the 440 and 220 dashes this year, 440 champion in the Central Collegiate meet, and second finisher in the USTF meet in the 440. As a freshman, he finished second in the 600-yard dash in the NCAA indoor meet, and fourth in the NCAA outdoor 440.

Dear Abby

Her age makes them all liars

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law, Molly, started to lie about her age a few years ago, and consequently she has thrown everybody in her family off five years.

Molly and I are both 51, and my husband, who is Molly's brother, is two years OLDER than I am, but with Molly now saying she is "46," my husband has now become three years YOUNGER than I am!

I tell the truth about my age, but my husband keeps his mouth shut so as not to make a liar out of Molly. I don't care if Molly stays Sweet 16 all her life, but I don't like the idea of suddenly being three years "older" than my husband who is really two years older than I am. What do you suggest?

FRANKLY 51

DEAR FRANKLY: Tell Molly to BE and ACT her age because you intend to tell it like it is.

DEAR ABBY: My mother should have been a school teacher. She has ears in the back of her head. Last evening a neighbor I baby-sit for telephoned and asked if I could sit for her next Friday night and I said I would, but while I was saying this my mother was yelling something to me, which I didn't hear.

Well, after I hung up my mother said, "I need you next Friday night, so you can't sit for Mrs. Lund." (I have a baby brother two years old I sometimes have to stay with.)

Mom said she would pay me what Mrs. Lund pays me, but it's not the money. A promise is a promise, and I promised Mrs. Lund.

My dad heard all this and he butts in with, "You will baby-sit for your mother, and that is the end of it!"

I think I am right and my parents are wrong, but I'll do what you say. I am 15 years old. KAREN

DEAR KAREN: I think you are right. A promise is a promise, but you and your parents should have an understanding. If they have "first rights" to your services, you must always ask your mother if she'll be needing you before accepting a job with another. Call Mrs. Lund, explain the circumstances, and ask to be excused.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the insurance business and my home telephone number is on my business card for the convenience of clients who may want to reach me in an emergency.

I have asked my wife to please answer the telephone and if it's for me to say that I am out at the moment, and take the name and number of the caller so that I may have a choice of returning the call immediately, or from my office. [Sometimes I prefer to return the call from my office in case I need the caller's file to answer questions.]

My wife insists on answering the phone in her usual manner, and if it's for me she'll say, "Yes, he is here." Then she calls me to the phone.

I've argued and pleaded, but to no avail. Don't you feel she should follow my instructions? She's agreed to abide by your decision. INSURANCE MAN

DEAR MAN: Chalk one up for yourself. I think your wife should follow your instructions.

DEAR ABBY: I am 79 years old and here is my problem: Every Mother's Day my son who lives several hundred miles away sends me cut flowers. Since they are quite expensive nowadays and are gone in a few days, I wrote and thanked him, but I also wrote, "I don't want to appear rude or ungrateful, but if you would send me just a card and a few dollars that could be used for stockings or hair-dos; it would be much easier for you, and better for me."

Abby, my husband retired 13 years ago when wages were not so high, and we are living on a small Social Security check. Now, was I wrong to write what I did?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Not in MY book.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

CHOLERA OUTBREAK

BANGKOK UP1 - An outbreak of cholera, which reached epidemic proportions in some areas, killed at least 21 persons in Thailand this month, authorities said Friday.

When freezing foods freeze them as quickly as possible, preferably 10-15 degrees below 0. After quick-freezing, store foods at 0 degrees Fahrenheit or lower. Check your freezer periodically to be sure it is maintaining this temperature. — Miss Patricia Everett.

GROWING-UP YEARS—There are many problems related to this period. Adults need to try to understand and guide, rather than using force and trying to solve their child's problems. What problems have to be faced? Physical growth — at this age they are often tired, and usually clumsy. The so called "laziness" of this age may be from unbalanced growth. A boy of fourteen may be as big as a man, but his heart is only about one-half the size of a man's. This means that a child's heart has to pump blood through a body which has grown to adult size.

Changes in growth and balance in their secretions, we cannot predict how a child in this growing-up process will behave and neither can they. Undeveloped muscles make them physically clumsy and undeveloped glands make them emotionally clumsy. — Irma Hamilton.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS — Leather upholstery should be cleaned with a mild soap and damp cloth; not with furniture polish. Rinse with damp cloth and dry thoroughly.

If silverware or glasses are coming out of the dishwasher streaked and spotted, try putting one tablespoon ammonia in with the detergent once or twice a week. It cuts the thin film of grease that may be building up in the bottom of the dishwasher and causing the rinse water to be slightly oily. — Mrs. Barletta Wrathe.

"How To Care for Permanent or Durable Press" continues to make the headlines even though it has been on the market for several years. To minimize abrasion and wrinkling, turn garments wrong side out before laundering and wash and dry small loads. Wash garments before they get too heavily soiled. Stains should not become aged. Grease and oil stains may be removed by pretreating with a liquid soap, cleaning fluid or soap paste before washing, or by using a prewash or soak cycle. Since man made fibers soften when hot, if they are spun while hot, they wrinkle. Modern washers now have a cool down cycle before the spin dry. For the homemaker who does not have a washer with a cool down cycle, by manipulating the controls by hand, she can cool down the wash water, or else shorten the wash spin and rinse twice in cold water. When the clothes are dried in the dryer, the results will be good if the clothes are removed from the dryer as soon as it stops. Most garments will line dry quite satisfactorily, although some touch-up pressing may be necessary. — Catherine C. Thompson.

"Make an indoor garden." Line a low, shallow box with foil and a plastic sheet. Fill in with layer of pebbles. Select an array of bright blooming plants . . . all types and sizes. Elevate some flat patio stones for interest. The pebble base gives good drainage and provides humidity for the plants. — Mrs. Juanita Amonett.

The poison ivy or poison oak season is here now. Indications are this skin pest is as potent this year as ever. The poisonous material is produced in the leaves, flowers, fruits, bark and roots. Thus, touching the plant anywhere can cause trouble.

Extension Service leaflet No. 207 "Controlling Poison Ivy," describes the plant and lists materials that will kill it. Contact your local Extension Office for a copy of this leaflet. — Mrs. Maxine Griffin.

Anita Pendergrass Honored At Shower Community Center

Miss Anita Gail Pendergrass, July 4th bride-elect of Larry Wisehart, was the honoree at a delightfully planned shower held at the Community Center on Saturday, June 21, at eight o'clock in the evening.

The gracious hostesses for the pre-nuptial event were Mrs. James Wisehart, Mrs. Willie Smith, and Mrs. Bernice Wisehart.

For the occasion the honoree chose to wear a pink knit dress with a hostesses' gift corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Rayburn Pendergrass, mother of the honoree, wore a white knit dress and her gift corsage was of pink carnations. Mrs. Gleneth Wisehart, mother-in-law to be of the honoree, was attired in a pale yellow dress with a corsage of green carnations.

Games were directed by Mrs. Willie Smith.

The honoree opened her many lovely gifts which had been placed on a table overlaid with a pink cloth and centered with an umbrella.

As she opened her gifts they were displayed on a table by Misses Glenda Stubblefield, Josephine Vaughn, Wilma Smith, and Shirley Bazzell, Mrs. Mac McCuiston kept the list of the gifts.

Refreshments were served from the beautifully appointed table overlaid with a white linen cloth covered with pink net with large pink bows tied in lover's knots at each corner. Centering the table was the gorgeous arrangement of Queen Anne's lace, baby's breath, violet foliage, rosebuds and pink roses in a compote that was designed by Mrs. Ollie Brown.

Pink punch, cakes iced in pink and green, mints, and nuts were served by Mrs. James Wisehart and Miss Wilma Smith. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

The guest register was kept by Mrs. Steve McClure. Centering the table was a pink rosebud in a white vase.

Thirty-eight persons were present and twenty-five persons sent gifts who could not attend.

The shirt charisma' is expressed many ways in the new knit collection designed by Keith Adams. One sample: a placketed shirt top on a softly shaped body and low hip pleats that move and swing gracefully.

For the woman who wants to be fashionable and comfortable while she travels, Adams offers a capsule wardrobe of four pieces. Newly straight pants and a long sleeved shirt take a sleeveless tunic length cardigan. A skirt completes this packable "go anywhere" ensemble.

Plans In High Gear For Summer Festival In Paducah, July 11-13

OUTBOARD RACES — The National Outboard Association has sanctioned races on the Ohio River at the Paducah riverfront July 13 during the Summer Festival. The races are scheduled from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Ten classes of boats will race for cash prizes.

Canal Connecting Barkley and Kentucky Lakes

Plans for the third annual Paducah Summer Festival July 11-13, are in high gear with activities for both children and adults in prospect on the riverfront and on Broadway.

The Ride Round the Rivers will be featured both during the festival weekend, July 12-13 and on the preceding Sunday, July 6.

The July 6 flotilla will carry the semifinalists for the crown of Miss Western Kentucky Waterways, visiting members of the press and special guests. Any-one wishing to bring his boat to join the cruise at any point along the route will be welcome, according to Frank Still, chairman of the cruise.

Contestants for the title of Waterways Queen are making appearances on "Dance Party" on WPSD-TV each Friday. The crowning of the queen will spend a week in St. Petersburg, Fla., as her prize.

The U. S. Coast Guard cutter Cimarron is scheduled to leave the Port of Paducah at 8 a.m. July 12 to lead the Ride Round the Rivers. Approximately 30 local, state and national officials will be on board. The 80-mile cruise takes in the Tennessee, Cumberland and Ohio rivers, the canal between Kentucky and Barkley lakes and the locks at Kentucky and Barkley dams, returning to Paducah about 4 p.m. There is no charge for locking through.

An event which also will precede the festival, on July 5, will be the Aquarius Ball in the Ritz Hotel ballroom. It will be open to the public under the sponsorship of the Junior Woman's Club.

At 8 p.m., July 12, there will be an open air concert on the riverfront. The 81st Army Band from Ft. Campbell will open the program. Local talent will perform during the evening.

Modern campers are generally friendly and outgoing and always willing to give newcomers a helping hand. One such helping hand comes from Mrs. Edith Shedd, who's been camping for 16 years and writes on the subject for "Family Camping Leader" and "Better Camping" magazine.

It's Big Business

BESIDES affording much pleasure and many fine repasts, fishing is big business and has meant much to the economy of Kentucky. That it will mean more is certain. Roughly a quarter of a million people fish in Kentucky each year. The number is increasing as is the fishing potential and the fishing potential is mounting as new waters become available.

Persons from out of state are astounded by the great fishing potential offered in this state. There are now under construction five new lakes, which will be completed in the next four years. Add these waters to that of the 11 major impoundments now available and it's a safe bet that even more fishermen will visit this state. The trend will continue upward.

Important in increasing the number of fishermen is the work of the Division of Fisheries of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. There are projects designed to create more and better fishing. There's the rainbow trout project that has brought joy to many persons; there are transplanted rock fish; there are experiments with hybrids which are designed to create a faster growing fish, and, of course, there are the old standbys—croppie, basses, bluegill, catfish and others.

This year fishing reached such proportions that the Governor declared a "Go Fishing Week In Kentucky", emphasizing the great importance of fishing to the Commonwealth. Yes, fishing in Kentucky affords much pleasure and its economic value can do nothing but increase.

America on the Move

Tender Care For Tenderfoot

BY GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Add six million tenderfoot campers this season to the increasing numbers of Americans who seek the great outdoors to get away from it all.

This pastoral practice has become family recreation, with some 40 million Americans now involved in everything from pitching simple tents to tooling about in elaborate motorized campers equipped with all the comforts of home.

TO THE NEWCOMERS who approach camping with thoughts only of bugs and bites instead of the grandeur of nature, camping experts offer comfort. Modern campsites in state and federal parks and other locales are usually clean and pleasant, provide electricity, water and other facilities. And modern camping equipment is efficient, compact, and portable.

Modern campers are generally friendly and outgoing and always willing to give newcomers a helping hand. One such helping hand comes from Mrs. Edith Shedd, who's been camping for 16 years and writes on the subject for "Family Camping Leader" and "Better Camping" magazine.

MRS. SHEDD also is consultant to a firm that makes camping equipment items, and so is asked constantly for advice.

Basic equipment, she says, should include a tent, lantern, refrigerator, sleeping bags and stove. Modern camp chefs rarely cook over open fires.

She suggested a propane stove as a starter. The fuel comes in disposable cylinders that can be carried anywhere and attached directly to the stove. With propane, there's no need to pump or prime the fuel tank, and the flame is adjustable.

Mrs. Shedd and other camping experts advise that the first camping trip be a short one—say just a week end. Emphasis should be on camping, not travel. If your family is fresh and enthusiastic when it arrives at the campsite, the first experience in setting up camp will go calmly and quickly. And, if some serious problem develops, like a downpour and a leaky tent, you can pack up and go home before the family decides

Let's Go Boating!

PHOTOGRAPHY: HIGHLIGHT OF BOATING HOBBY

An opportunity to enjoy photography is one of the major highlights of a boating hobby. Marine photography is both creatively rewarding because of the variety and beauty of subject matter, and a challenge because it presents problems not encountered by the land-bound shutterbug.

The boating photographer tends to overexpose his pictures because water reflects and intensifies sunlight. The best solution to this problem is the use of a light meter. Without the aid of the meter the photographer is usually safe if he closes the lens one stop beyond the land setting. Filters also cut down glare.

Judging distance can also be a problem caused by expanses of water without reference points. Making a distant object the focal point of a photo may result in a finished picture of a mere speck.

The motion of a boat requires that a fast camera speed be used for clear pictures. Remember not to lean against the side of the moving boat as you shoot.

To avoid blur, the marine photographers at Evinrude Motors suggest a minimum camera speed of 1/250 of a second.

Precautions should be taken to keep equipment dry, especially the lens or filter. Water, notably salt water, will corrode a camera and spots on the lens will spoil an otherwise good picture.

Spray can be avoided by not shooting into a stiff wind, but if shooting occurs, the lens or filter should be cleaned immediately with a soft cloth or lens paper.

Camera and film should be kept in a dry, shaded part of the boat when not in use and can be protected with a plastic bag.

Look for pictures that present a fresh but nautical approach. Avoid cluttered backgrounds. The beauty of any picture often lies in its simplicity.

A good marine photographer keeps his camera handy and uses it to be a permanent dropout from camp life.

PACK SENSIBLY, says Mrs. Shedd. Take enough dishes, cooking utensils, clothing and bedding to live comfortably. But don't overload so that the family spends the whole week end packing and unpacking. Concentrate on sturdy, versatile equipment.

If it can be arranged, the tenderfoot is well advised to venture forth with an experienced camper. A woman who's an experienced camper can give the first-timer help and confidence by showing her how to avoid the pitfalls.

Finally, for the first campsite, choose a location offering the maximum in facilities and creature comforts.

"Ease yourself and family into outdoor living," says Mrs. Shedd. "Rather than abruptly severing your ties with civilization."

Lakes Fair For Fishing

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—High and muddy waters have made Barren River Reservoir unsuitable for fishing, but other Kentucky lakes are in fair to good condition after heavy rains, said the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

The lake-by-lake rundown: Herrington Lake—Bluegill good on worms and crickets at 12-30 feet off deep banks; black bass fair on artificial worms at night and by still fishing with soft crawfish. White bass best by jump fishing and trolling. Main lake clear except extreme upper section which is muddy after one foot rise; temperature is 80.

Kentucky Lake—Blood River area, black bass good on surface lures and artificial worms early and late; bluegill good over whole lake off shallow banks on worms and crickets; fair white bass in jumps and fair bluegill around dropoffs. Heads of tributaries murky, remainder clear and stable at 80. Below dam; catfish, bluegill and croppie fair to good.

Lake Cumberland—White bass good at night at 25-35 feet and in jumps; bluegill good on grasshoppers and worms. Small croppie on minnows at 8-15 feet; trout good in lower section on nightcrawlers and minnows at night and by casting surface lures and spinners in jumps. Heads of creeks murky, remainder clear, rising slowly after a two-foot rise, 78 degrees.

Dale Hollow Reservoir—White bass good at night on minnows at 35 feet; bluegill good off deep banks on worms and crickets. Good catfish on trotline. Headwaters murky to muddy and remainder clear and rising after three-foot rise; 78 degrees.

Dewey Lake—Fair catches of croppie around fallen tree-tops on minnows; bluegill off shallow banks on worms and crickets. Fair catches of black bass on surface lures. Clear and stable; 82 degrees.

Buckhorn Lake—Bluegill good off shallow banks on worms; white bass in jumps. Black bass on surface lures. Headwaters murky to muddy, remainder clear and rising slowly; 79 degrees.

Rough River—Bluegill good in South Fork on worms and crickets; white bass at 25-30 feet on minnows at night and by jump fishing. Headwaters murky to muddy, remainder clear and rising slowly; 76 degrees.

Lake Barkley—Bluegill good in lower section on worms and crickets; black bass extra good in Little River area by jig fishing artificial nightcrawlers and by trolling. Water conditions unsettled, some tributaries murky to muddy and some clear. Main lake situation generally after a two-foot rise; 78 degrees. Below dam, fair white bass, bluegill and croppie.

MISS WATERWAYS — Miss Esta Rowland was the queen of the waterways last year and reigned over the second annual Paducah Summer Festival. A new queen will be named on July 12 during the 1969 Summer Festival from a group of five finalists.

BE sure to drown all fires.

Living thru hubby's 'itch'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: "TRAPPED," who discovered after 25 years of marriage that her husband had been unfaithful, asked for advice from other wives who had lived through the same experience. I qualify, and here is my advice:

Because your husband has been unfaithful after 25 years doesn't mean it hasn't been a happy marriage. A man can love his wife and family, and still get itchy feet. This is usually his "age" showing, and makes him easy game for other women. You may not be a perfect wife, but neither is he a perfect husband.

Don't run to a lawyer until time shows that it is more than just an "affair." My husband was shocked that I would even consider a divorce. Do your crying in private and put on a happy face in public. This will take some "acting." Some days I felt that at any time a trumpet would blast from out of the blue and I would be presented with an Academy Award.

Never, never approach the other woman. You will only tighten the bond between her and your husband and make a fool of yourself. This, I did, and now I blush to think of how I acted. If it hadn't been this woman, it would have been some other one. This may sound crazy, but concentrate on getting things straightened out between you and your husband and don't waste your time and energy trying to find out all about her.

Pray. Ask God to strengthen your forgiving spirit. If your man has been a good husband and father for 25 years, his conscience has forgiven him enough already. He's not as happy as you think he is.

Don't tell the children. They have enough problems growing up without losing faith in their father. In fact the fewer people you tell, the easier the mending will be.

Check yourself over. Forget self-pity and go in for self-improvement. If you've been denying yourself a few luxuries so the children will have more—stop it. Get a new dress, go to the beauty shop, and shape up.

Don't take separate bedrooms. You only give her the advantage. Pride is a lonely bedfellow. If you really want him back, "love" him back. You'll never "fuss" him back.

Time is your best ally. You CAN forget, if you make up your mind that you really want to.

Our children are grown and gone, and we are grandparents now, but are still young enough to enjoy life together. I never mention the "affair." I love my husband and want him to be happy.

God bless you, my unknown friend. And chin up.
"BEEN THERE"

DEAR ABBY: Hurry your answer please. I have to know before I tell the printer how to word the wedding invitations.

You see, my daughter is getting married and we are presently planning her wedding. Her father and I are in the process of getting a divorce, but we have not made any public announcement yet and nobody knows it, but we've had a miserable marriage for 22 years. If this divorce news breaks before the wedding how should the wedding invitations be worded?

IN A RUSH

DEAR IN: I suggest you make a deal with your husband and postpone the "divorce announcement" until after your daughter's wedding. If you've had a "miserable marriage" for 22 years, another few months won't make any difference.

DEAR ABBY: I have something to say to the husband who likes to be chased around the bedroom once in a while. [The boob I married about a year ago called this letter to my attention.]

I used to chase my husband around the bedroom, too, but we had a very short honeymoon. How long would YOU chase a guy who sleeps in thermal underwear and puts VICKS up his nose before he turns out the light?

Russian And Frenchman To Make Movie

HOLLYWOOD UPI - Should you chance upon a long-faced, mournful Russian and a black haired, watchful Frenchman in town there is a logical explanation. They are a team of distinguished movie makers from abroad.

The pair will have in tow actor Jean Paul Belmondo and actress Anne Girardot starring as a pair of lovers from France who see America together for the first time.

Alexandre Mnouchkine is the Russian-born producer who is now a French citizen and the youthful director is the much hailed Claude Lelouch who reached fame for his "A Man and a Woman."

If Mnouchkine appears mournful it is because neither his stars nor director speak English. And if Lelouch is testy it is for the same reasons. But they must be credited with making a runaway film in reverse, bringing many of their own technicians here from France.

"We are making a film of America through French eyes," Lelouch said rapidly, with Mnouchkine translating between breaths. "It is definitely a French picture," Lelouch continued. "To do an American picture you must be an American or live here a very long time."

"Our major locations will be Los Angeles, San Francisco, Las Vegas, Monument Valley in Utah, Tucson, New York and New Orleans. All of these places are beautiful."

"More than a reaction to the scenery, we want to show the response of Frenchman seeing the American people and spirit for the first time."

Mnouchkine completed translating, and added on his own, "Americans may see themselves from an entirely new point of view. Hollywood film makers have never attempted to do abroad what we are doing here. Movies set in France never truly portray that country."

Lelouch: "They show it as if it were America."

Mnouchkine: Claude and I have visited all the locations three times, buying in the shops, service stations, visiting motels, restaurants...."

Lelouch: "You have to stay in America to love it. I think Americans don't see the United States as it is anymore, and they don't appreciate it. I love the United States myself."

Mnouchkine lost some of Lelouch's fervor in the translation. But he is older than his director and probably less inclined to fall in love with a country - be it the U. S., France or the Soviet Union.

Lelouch has been considered an avant garde, sophisticated director of the new breed. But he said progress is so rapid in movies he would top 15 minutes from "A Man and a Woman" to keep it from dragging.

This is the third time Lelouch and Mnouchkine have worked together. The title is "Again, a Love Story." Their previous efforts were "Live for Life" and "Life, Love and Death."

Lelouch's English hasn't improved. But Mnouchkine has become an excellent translator.

Banana

nation's greatest banana port, and Chicago, form a major U.S. Distribution point for bananas. The residents of the twin cities have been marking this claim to fame for seven years - and each year the celebration gets bigger.

The International Banana Festival is no small town, strictly local affair. It is a combination mardi gras, political convention, diplomatic conference. Underlying the over-all gaiety and pulsating Latin American beat, is a serious and dedicated effort to create friendship and understanding between the peoples of the United States and their Latin American neighbors.

It also provides an unusual object lesson in what a community can accomplish through the cooperative efforts of its citizens. With an aggregate population of less than 7,000, this community annually stages the International Banana Festival with the help of at least 10% of its vibrant, energetic population. This percentage applied to a large city would stagger the imagination.

This is how this community's efforts work: Start with a board of directors whose members are representative of all the civic organizations and it reads like this: Chamber of Commerce, Twin-Cities Development, Young Men's Business Club, Woman's Club, Jaycees, Business & Professional Women's Club, Civitan Club, Lions Club, American Legion and Auxiliary, Elks Club, South Fulton Booster Club, Rotary Club, South Fulton Advisors, N. A. A. C. P.

Each organization is then given a specific area of work, such as: Arts and Crafts Exhibits, Woman's Club; Banan-A-Rama Street Dance, Y.M.B.C., Elks Club, Carnival and grounds; Civitan Club; Decorations; Banan-A-Rama; Legion Auxiliary; Parade, Lions Club; Princess Pageant, Rotary Club; Governors Day, Chamber of Commerce and Twin-Cities Development; Window Fair, Fulton & Ohio County Homemakers; Ticket Sales, B. & W. Whole Town May Give Up Smoking

GREENFIELD, Iowa (UPI) - This Central Iowa community may quit smoking. The whole town. For fun.

Even Mayor Dale Yount, a chain smoker of cigars and cigarettes, is going to give it a whirl.

"It seems kind of laughable at first glance," Edwin J. Sidey, editor of the Adair County Free Press, said Wednesday. "But then you think about it and you think it might be done."

Sidey said the idea caught on when Greenfield was chosen as one of the sites for filming a movie called "Cold Turkey." The film's plot involves a multi-millionaire who promises a small town $25 million if all the residents kick the tobacco habit.

Two city councilmen who already have given up smoking agitated for the drive, Sidey said. They "kind of rode the others although one of them went from cigarettes to chewing tobacco and he's trying to get over that, now."

The drive will begin officially in August with a mammoth bonfire fueled by tobacco. Then everyone is expected to quit.

Sidey admits there are some skeptics among the city's 2,200 residents.

"There are some suggestions the fire department will get worn out putting out fires in closets."

Crib Death Study

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Mysterious crib deaths, which claim 15,000 infants a year, occur more frequently among Negro and poor families, a report showed.

A survey team at Temple University School of Medicine studied cases of 337 sudden and unexpected deaths of infants over a three-year period.

Well-Read Hungarians

BUDAPEST (UPI) - A survey of Hungarian youth shows that all read books, 97.5 per cent read newspapers, 92.1 per cent weekly periodicals and 69.4 per cent magazines, according to the news agency MTL. Of the book readers, 31.2 per cent prefer modern novels, followed by historical and biographical novels and travel books. There was very little interest in poetry.

Hospital Cleanup Wins Award

MANILA (UPI) - The National Mental Hospital, once known as a "snake pit" because of its congested and unsanitary conditions, has won an award as the cleanest government hospital. Mrs. Imelda Marcos, the Philippines' First Lady, visited the hospital last year and started a vigorous improvement drive.

ASSASSINATED - Armed with machine guns, terrorists shot and killed Augusto Timoteo Vador (above), Argentina's most powerful labor union leader who had refused to take part in a nationwide walkout to protest the third anniversary of the government, and the visit of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Six persons were reported injured in a two car collision last night at 8:01 p.m. on Sycamore Street, according to the investigating report filed by the officers of the Murray Police Department.

Those injured were Joe Pat Phillips, age 23, Murray Route Three, Beverly Rodgers, age 17, Lynn Grove Route One, Mike Ernsterberger, age 17, Murray Route Five, Jane T. Hightree Hough, age 34, 1505 Kirkwood Drive, Murray, Marilyn Shell, Roseau, Minn., age 23, and Rebecca Hough, 1505 Kirkwood, age six, according to the police report.

Injuries listed on the report were Miss Rodgers, left knee, Ernsterberger, cut on head, and Miss Shell, right knee. The injuries to the other persons were listed on the police report.

Police said Phillips, driving a 1968 Rambler two door hardtop, had made a left turn off South 12th Street and was traveling east on Sycamore Street. Phillips lost control of his car and collided head-on with the 1969 Dodge four door, driven by Mrs. Hough, that was going west on Sycamore Street, in the lane of traffic of the Hough car, according to the police.

Damage to both the Phillips and Hough cars was on the front end.

Later last night at 9:10 p.m. another collision occurred on South 12th Street.

Donald Eugene Peal of Hazel Route Two, driving a Dodge two door hardtop, was backing out of a driveway and hit the left front fender of the 1962 Ford station wagon parked on South 6th Street, according to the report filed by the Murray Police Department.

The Ford was owned by Elmo Thomas Bedwell of Mayfield.

Damage to the Peal car was on the right rear bumper and to the Bedwell car on the left front fender.

Friday morning at 10:35 an accident occurred at North 18th Street and Highway 121, according to the police report.

Cars involved were a 1963 Chevrolet four door driven by Linnie P. Underwood of Paris, Tenn., Route Four, and a 1968 Chevrolet two door driven by Diane Garrett Balkey of Paducah Route Three.

Police said the Underwood car was going north on 18th Street, failed to stop at the stop sign at Highway 121, hit the Balkey car on the highway, and traveled on into a field north of Highway 121.

Damage to the Underwood car was on the front end and to the Balkey car on the right rear.

Down the Garden Path

By Mrs. W. P. WILLIAMS

A reader of this column who lives in St. Charles, Ill., was the gracious donor of a couple of weeks ago of ten sweet-scented geranium plants. The only one of this type that I knew anything about was the rose geranium in my mother's home. I was surprised to see so many scents in this plant family which is the Pelargonium.

In addition to the scented leaf plants she sent a tiny miniature geranium so dainty that I can hardly wait for it to bloom.

Knowing so little about them, I went to my Garden Dictionary and found them listed with an interesting description of each. I was also delighted to find some of the named varieties among the plants given to me. There are lime, lemon, mint, strawberry, Apple, Old Spice flavors and one that can be used to crush a leaf in tea to add flavor.

The foliage is one of the interesting features. Some of them have the familiar geranium shape, while several have lacy leaf sprays that add so much to the attractiveness. The blossoms range from white through pink to a bright red. A most pleasing variety and a most welcome gift.

One of the neglected plants in most gardens is the garden herb. They can be planted in our flower beds, borders or rock gardens. So many of the famous gardens had a special section for herbs that were used in making tastier dishes or to bring out the natural flavor of food.

It takes only a few plants to supply the needs, a half dozen plants would be sufficient. Some are annuals and need to be planted each year, but the perennials will go through the winter with a little mulch for protection and will be a continual source of pleasure. Anise, basil, and rosemary are some of the annual herbs that can be used most often. Among the perennials are chives, sage and thyme. Parsley is a biennial and sometimes reseeds itself.

Most recipes using herbs call for "a pinch," which means that it doesn't take much to give the needed flavor, for they must never predominate in a dish. Fresh herbs can be used more lavishly than the dried ones, but none should give an overpowering flavor or odor to the food.

Herbs are known also for their medicinal value. In the old days before modern medicine was developed, such plants as horseradish, hyssop, saffron and rue were used. The leaves of rue were supposed to be good for hysteria.

One fortunate thing about herbs is that they are not subject to disease or pests, at least not to the degree of most other plants.

An additional idea is that small jars of dried herbs make welcome gifts and bags of lavender make delightful sachets. The uses are unlimited and, too, you will have a new pleasure in growing your own. Don't forget to fly the flag tomorrow.

After the young robin hatches he eats an average of 14 feet of earthworms a day.

LANDMARK IN LAS VEGAS - Two new hotels just opened in Las Vegas, Nev., are the International (left), billed as the world's largest resort hotel, and the "topheavy" Landmark, latest acquisition of Howard Hughes, who seems to be slowly buying up the gambling spa. These hotels are two blocks east of the Strip, which may mean another Strip is starting.
